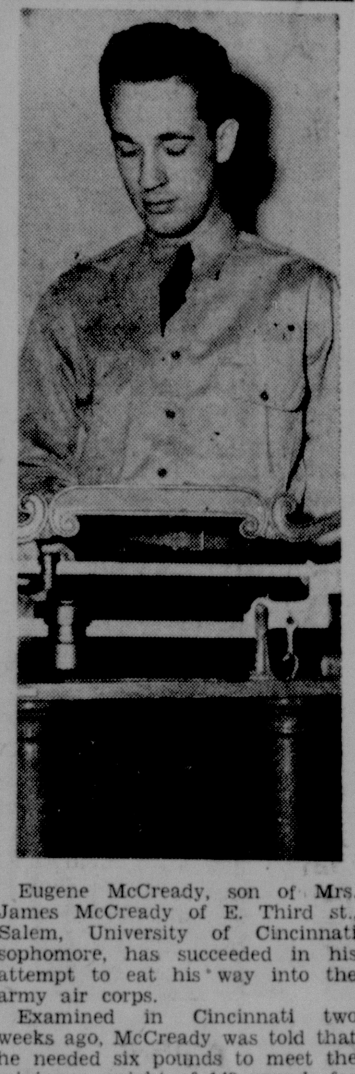
McCready's Diet Gets Results; Eats His Way Into Army



Eugene McCready, son of Mrs. James McCready of E. Third st., Salem, University of Cincinnati sophomore, has succeeded in his attempt to eat his way into the army air corps.

Examined in Cincinnati two weeks ago, McCready was told that he needed six pounds to meet the minimum weight of 143 pounds for an enlistee standing five feet 11½ inches tall.

Mrs. Emily Jones of the university's school of nursing was called in to solve the problem, and a special diet was prepared.

So yesterday the Salem lad appeared again for examination. To his great consternation, air corps physical examiners told him that he now stood exactly six feet and should weigh 145 pounds.

With clouds of doubt figuratively weighing him down, McCready stepped on the scales and then let out a great shout when he found he actually weighed in at 146 pounds.

Under the new deferred enlistment plan of the air corps, eligible college and university men can complete their degree requirements before being called for active duty.

BRITISH WERE SET FOR ROMMEL DRIVE

Churchill Satisfied With Course of Battle Up to Present Time

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, June 2.—Prime Minister Churchill in a commons statement on Libya said today the British had foreseen the drive launched by Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommell last week and were ready for it.

He said it was clear from captured documents that Rommel intended to defeat the British armored forces and capture Tobruk.

"It is clear we have every reason to be satisfied and more than satisfied with the course the battle so far has taken," the prime minister declared, "and we shall watch its further development with earnest attention.

"Fierce fighting still is proceeding and will go on, but whatever may be the result there is not a shadow of doubt that Rommel's plans for his initial offensive have gone completely awry and cost him dear in men and material.

"A conservative estimate gives the number of enemy tanks destroyed or captured as about 260. There is no doubt that the number of enemy transport vehicles destroyed or captured is very large."

"We have also had our losses," he continued. "It is inevitable in a battle of this kind that casualties on both sides in tanks should be high but our recovery organization is working very well."

He said that General Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck, commander-in-chief of the British Middle Eastern forces, had informed the government "fierce fighting still is proceeding; the battle is by no means over."

HITLER'S HOLD OVER MASSES IS SLIPPING

Louis P. Lochner, Home After Internment, Tells Inside Story

APRIL 26 SPEECH DEPRESSES PEOPLE

Reference to Next Winter Fails to Arouse Enthusiasm

[Just returned to this country after five months internment by the Germans at Bad Nauheim, Louis P. Lochner, former chief of the Berlin bureau of Wide World and a Pulitzer prize winner for excellence in foreign correspondence, is writing a series of daily stories in which he reveals many facts about Germany's present leaders and the situation within the country.]

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER

NEW YORK, June 2. — (Wide World)—Adolf Hitler, for almost 20 years a master psychohlogist at sensing what the masses want to hear and what they are prepared to accept in the way of burdens and deprivations, has shown definite signs of late of failing to fathom public sentiment correctly.

In consequence, his unexampled hold upon the masses is gradually slipping.

The most recent case in point is his reichstag speech of April 26.

Thoughtful Germans still are asking themselves: How could Hitler at the end of a terrible winter, which took a severe toll of German life at the Russian front, inaugurate spring by telling the nation that next winter better transportation would be provided in the east? Why not see first how the summer offensive turns out and reserve talk about the next winter until then?

We who heard the speech on our secret radio during the final days of our internment at Bad Nauheim noted the depressing effect upon the German hotel personnel.

They've Heard Enough

American businessmen who joined us on the S. S. Drottningholm directly from Berlin told us: "A few more such speeches and the masses are through with Hitler. They don't want to hear of another winter of war."

They said the depressing effect upon the population of the capital was tremendous.

Their experience was like ours five months previously: Our grocer, our barber, our butcher, not to speak of our closer friends, literally cried when we made our last purchases or bade them farewell. They all realized instinctively and from their recollelction of the war of 1914-18 that America's entry into the war—forced by Hitler himself—

HIGH SCHOOL BAND WILL KEEP IN TRIM

Salem High school's band will not get "rusty" during the summer vacation season.

At a meeting of the board of education last night, Supt. Earl Kerr announced plans whereby the musical organization will meet for practice at regular intervals during the summer months.

As a result, improved work for football games and other occasions will be noticeable this fall, the school believes. It is possible that a few concerts will be presented for the enjoyment of Salem citizens during the summer.

The board voted to repair the roofs and plastering on the ticket booths at the north entrance to Reilly stadium.

The board approved the use of a limited number of school rooms by those members of the regular teaching staff who wish to do summer tutoring and O. K.'d the use of the auditorium for Flag day exercises Sunday afternoon.

FDR ASKS WAR ON 3 NATIONS

Calls for Declarations Against Bulgaria, Rumania, Hungary

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 2.—President Roosevelt asked congress today to declare war on Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania.

The chief executive, in a terse message to the house of representatives, said that these three countries had declared war on the United States as "the instruments of Hitler."

They "are now engaged in military activities directed against the United Nations and are planning an extension of these activities," he added.

The message did not go to the senate, since it was not in session.

The text follows:

"The governments of Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania have declared war against the United States. I realize that the three governments took this action not upon their own initiative or in response to the wishes of their own peoples but as the instruments of Hitler. These three governments now are engaged in military activities directed against the United Nations and are planning an extension of these activities.

"Therefore, I recommend that the congress recognize a state of war between the United States and Bulgaria, between the United States

Claim 20,000 Killed In Raid On Cologne

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 2. — The record RAF raid on Cologne killed "in the neighborhood of 20,000" persons, wounded 54,000, 20 per cent of them critically, and put in motion a mass migration from the Rhineland, the New York Times said today in a report credited to "private advices from competent neutral observers in Berlin."

Three-fifths of the inhabitants of Cologne—total population roughly 800,000—are being officially evacuated, mostly to the area of Munich.

The entire populations of Aachen, Duesseldorf, Wuppertal, Mainz and other cities have started a mass migration from the Rhineland in fear of further bombardment, it added.

Of the damage in Cologne, the New York Times said:

"Although details are lacking, it is understood from Berlin neutral quarters that roughly five-sevenths of Cologne's chemical and fine machine-tool industries have been completely wrecked."

School Mibs Stars Battle For Chance At City Title

School Champs To Be Determined Today; They'll Clash Tomorrow For Shot at District Crown

Teachers will breathe easier, they hope, when the last lad and lassie scamper through the doors tomorrow and school officially ends for another year.

After working days and nights rationing out sugar, they're now "up to their ears" in marbles, for it's the annual mibs championship season.

Though a little late, the mibs campaign is going strong and some sharpshooter will qualify for a chance at the dstrict title in the play-off competition at Canton Saturday.

This afternoon the mibs experts are knuckling down at six schools to determine the school champions in the eighth annual Salem News tourney. Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, the school champs will battle it out at Reilly stadium under the eye of Joe M. Kelley and the winner will be the city champ.

Elimination tournaments at the local schools have already been run off. The respective room champions will battle for their school title and a chance in the city finals in which the winner will go to Canton to compete in the district tourney. This year, instead of sending the winner in the Canton event Saturday straight to the national "mibs" event, the national officials have planned the tournament on a new basis. The champion of the Canton district will compete with champions in the Cleveland area and the winner there will go to the national tournament.

Room champs in the various grade schools are: Fourth Street—Fourth grade, Harold Edgerton and Donald Lippiatt; fifth grade, Wilfred Faulkner; sixth grade, Eugene Bell.

Columbia—Fourth grade, Joe Nocera; fifth grade, Edward Bozich; sixth grade, Keith Scott; special class, William Ehrhart.

McKinley—Fourth grade, Thomas Stoffer; fifth grade, Henry Miller and Billy Brown; sixth grade, Aubrey Cain and Herbert Foster.

Prospect—Fourth grade, Leo Kline; fifth grade, Albert Spack; sixth grade, John Beck. Reilly—Fourth grade, John McGuire; fifth grade, Thomas Miner; sixth grade, John Schaefer and Gene Hanna.

TWO PARTIES OFF BALLOTS

Communist and Social-Laborites Are Ruled Out By Sweeney

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, June 2.—Secretary of State John E. Sweeney today ruled the Communist and the Social-Labor parties off the Ohio ballots this year.

His formal ruling was based, he said, "on facts known through public record and on personal investigation."

Both parties applied recently for permission to enter slates of candidates in the coming election.

"As long as I am secretary of state," Sweeney asserted, "the Ohio ballot will not be used as a transmission belt to import foreign ideals and subversive movements."

"Invisible Front" On Move In Europe

By DeWITT MacKENZIE, Wide World War Analyst.

Small wonder that Hitler's chancellery is said to be swept with consternation at the attempted assassination of Reinhard Heydrich, deputy chief of the dread German Gestapo (secret police), in Czecho-Slovakia.

It would be difficult to exaggerate the significance of this event, for it emphasizes the burning spirit of that invisible front of conquered peoples who are only waiting for their chance to turn and rend their oppressors. The great daring of this effort to exterminate powerful "der henker" (the hangman) gives a measure of the determination of the wearers of the Nazi yoke.

This defiance of an organization upon which the fuehrer has depended so greatly to keep a tight rein both abroad and at home is reported to have resulted in arrests even in Berlin. Any weakening of the authority of the Gestapo obviously creates a danger to Nazidom. From Hitler's standpoint there is an unfortunate coincidence in the unprecedented British air raids, since these will give a mighty fillip to the fighting spirit of the occupied countries and already are reported to have caused a panicky state of nerves in Germany's Cologne and Essen territories.

It is an evil omen for Hitler that now the subjugated are rising even against der henker and the Gestapo, which has such unlimited powers for reprisal. The invisible front is on the move.

RAF Turns 1,036 Warplanes Loose On Germany Again

Raid Nazi Arsenal City, Home of Huge Krupp Munitions Works; Churchill Promises More Bombings of Even Greater Severity

BULLETIN
(By Associated Press)

FOLKESTONE, England, June 2.—Great forces of RAF planes roared across the channel today in forays which southeast coast observers called one of the biggest daylight operations of the war.

Hour after hour many squadrons headed for various targets in northern France. Planes returning early in the evening created a great din.

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, June 2.—The RAF turned the lethal, devastating might of 1,036 RAF planes loose on Germany last night, almost all of them on the region of the Nazi arsenal city of Essen, Prime Minister Churchill announced today.

The second of the crushing raids which the RAF has made against the sources of Adolf Hitler's military strength in three days struck at the home of the huge Krupp munitions works and Churchill promised that more of even greater severity would follow "when we are joined, as we soon shall be, by the air force of the United States."

The Essen raid came after a pause of but one night, when bad weather held the RAF's great bomb-carrying air armada grounded, after the mammoth attack by considerably more than 1,000 British bombers on Cologne.

Again, British losses were relatively slight for an air offensive of such magnitude. Churchill said 35 bombers had failed to return.

He told the house of commons that the raiders had shown numerous and widespread fires last night and the two raids introduced "a new phase in the British air offensive against Germany" which will put the enemy to "an ordeal the like of which never has been experienced in any country in continuity, severity or magnitude."

He cautioned the British, however, not to expect all future raids to be "above the four-figure scale" in number of planes, adding that "methods of attack will be continually varied according to circumstances."

Day Shift Takes Up Work

Hardly before the last of the night bombers had rolled down on their home bases, the day shift of Britain's stepped-up offensive was in the clear air early today, streaking for the French coast.

Just as the Germans sought to repay for the desolation of Cologne with a retaliatory attack Sunday night on the ancient cathedral city of Cnterbury, they announced today that another old-world English town, Ipswich, had been the target of their night air blows.

United States observers were believed to have gone over again with the RAF.

They were preparing, presumably, for what Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the United States army air force, yesterday called the hope of American fliers "very soon to fly and fight beside the RAF" in attacks which the Germans "cannot meet, defeat or survive."

(The German radio said British planes attacked western and northwestern Germany and that more than a score of bombers were reported shot down.)

Essen is a manufacturing city noted chiefly for vital iron and steel works of the Krupp industries.

Talks Football As Bombers are Loaded

(By Associated Press)

AT A RAF BOMBER COMMAND BASE, June 2.—The greasy, grinning ground crews sang "we're off to bomb the Jerries" to the tune of "the Wizard of Oz" as they loaded incendiaries and high explosive bombs into the four-motored thunder birds preparing for last nights raid on Essen and the Ruhr.

Scores of Stirlings, Halifaxes and Lancasters dotted the landscape. Mechanics, fitters and armorers swarmed around them. You could hear them whistle with admiration as the big bomb loads came out.

The air crews sat around in the sun and talked about everything but the war.

An earnest Scot demonstrated the Bobby Jones swing. Leonard Johnson from Corpus Christi, Texas, boasted about Texas university football teams. Johnson was going to fly one of the bombers. The Scot was wireless operator and gunner in another. It was his tenth big show.

There was no speculation on what the target was to be. Everyone kept his eye on the weather though. All felt in their bones that there would be a "scramble" if it remained clear.

The only time they talked of the war was when a long string of trucks bearing big bombs came past. Johnson smacked his lips.

"Ah-ah," he said. "More big stuff. It looks like another big one."

SUGAR APPLICANTS USE UP ALL BLANKS

With hundreds of prospective canners crowding the Memorial building and more being turned away the rationing board yelled "Help!" at noon today and closed up shop.

The primary reason was the fact that the board exhausted its supply of application forms for sugar after handling an estimated 500 customers. The board immediately wired state headquarters for more forms but have no advance knowledge of when they will arrive.

As a result, no applications will be accepted tomorrow as planned. Advance notice of the next session of the board will be made as soon as application forms are assured.

JAPAN WILL BOMB U. S.

Secretary of War Stimson's statement that his department expects retaliatory bombing by the Japanese to save face following the Doolittle expedition sounds like a warning, but may actually have the effect of reassurance. If inland cities are reconciled to bombing raids before the war is over, certainly there must be few residents of coastal cities not convinced by this time that the only uncertainties are when and where.

Certainly, every Pacific port and especially those with special importance to the navy can expect to become a target. On the Atlantic coast, New York City is almost a certainty to be given at least token raids Likewise, no naval installation on the Atlantic coast is safe.

The great danger is not the actual damage that might be done to physical property, but the confusion and hysteria that will ensue if the civilian population is not schooled in advance to accept this inevitable development of aerial warfare. Gen. Doolittle's exploit left Tokyo in a dither. It remains to be seen how New York or San Francisco would react.

'THEY CAN'T DO THIS TO US'

The oil state congressmen willing to bleed and die in a fight to prevent gasoline rationing outside the Atlantic seaboard states are all worthy gentlemen. They cannot be criticized for doing what they think is their duty. As congressmen, they are supposed to look out for the interests of their constituents. Gasoline rationing throughout the nation would knock the oil business flatter than the airplane hangars were when the Japanese called it a day last Dec. 7 and left Hawaii.

Yet, it is permissible to wonder what the oil business would look like a couple of years from now if nothing were done to conserve rubber and if the miracle that's supposed to open up a new supply of something just as good didn't come off. Not only would the oil business be knocked flat; it would be invisible.

Rubber-wise, the United States, as the Truman committee of the senate explained at length in its current report on the rubber situation, has insisted on believing in fairies. It believed the fairies would keep the purposeful Japanese out of Java, Sumatra and the Malay states. Now it is insisting that fairies will wave their wands and produce vast quantities of something just as good as rubber. The oil state congressmen bellowing, "They can't do this to us!" are being absurd. It already has been done.

PREPARED BUT NOT RESOLVED

The government plainly does not want to fiddle with manpower freezing unless everything else fails. Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the war manpower commission, has the thankless job of trying to stabilize the labor market by threatening to put it under government control for war jobs but never actually cracking down. He will be prepared—but not resolved—to do as much as Germany has done to mobilize labor

It is a ticklish question, so ticklish that some think Mr. McNutt has been permitted to handle it in the expectancy that sooner or later it will handle him Labor is enjoying a seller's market. Jobs are hunting men. For the first time in a decade, the individual has enough bargaining power to get an approximation of what he thinks he is worth.

This is causing too many shifts from one job to another. Labor is hunting for chances to improve itself; frequently this is done at the expense of war production. The government would like to have it stopped. The government hopes for the best. But it hopes to get by without getting tough. The government probably is hoping for more than it will get.

Even former President Hoover, who can't be accused of favoring undue centralization of authority has asserted publicly that the United States can't expect to beat totalitarianism without adopting some of the means of beating it at its own game. In the long run, stabilization of the labor market will have to be given serious consideration.

LET'S BEAT UP MR. HENDERSON

Perhaps Leon Henderson knows about the ancient custom of killing the bearer of bad tidings. It was a handy way for the recipient of the news to blow off steam.

Murmurs against him and all his works are common these days, as he and everybody else knew they would be when things really began to get tough. It is his job to make things get tough. He didn't expect to win any popularity contests.

Specifically, he didn't expect that Americans were going to love him to pieces for bringing them the bad news of what it meant to fight an all-out war to win He knew that they thought it was going to be something like the last time, with airplanes added and nothing taken away. And he know that it wasn't going to be like that at all.

This is not a brief for Mr. Henderson. The name is incidental. Any other administrator on the same hot spot would be getting crisped right now by the same crowd—all the people who are for the war 100 per cent, for victory 150 per cent, but who are 200 per cent for letting somebody else do the bulk of the sacrificing.

Latest crowd to get their heads together and decide to beat up Mr. Henderson is the oil state bloc in congress. He has only recently been instrumental in springing what is for oil producers the very sad news that gasoline rationing is not something exclusively for eastern states where gasoline and rubber are both scarce. It is also for the rest of the country, where gasoline is just as short as it is in New Jersey.

While this is bad news for a lot of people it is difficult to see what's going to be gained by blaming Leon Henderson for it. After all, things wouldn't be any different if he could be scalped and quartered, which is apparently what his critics aim to do.

THE STARS SAY:

For Wednesday, June 3

ALTHOUGH there may be very definite promise of promotion, preferment, favors or other tokens of esteem from superiors, employers or those able to advance the ambitions and high objectives yet these may be attended by several adverse indications of treachery, fraud, misrepresentation and other undercurrent machinations to be guarded against. Also the money factor will probably not be encouraging and calls for particular fortification. Be cautious with all writings and speech.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of attaining many of their objectives and cherished ambitions, with elders, superiors, employers or others in place and power. Nevertheless there are signs of financial danger through fraud, duplicity, misrepresentation, with much subtlety and trickery to be armed for. Speech, writings, travel, agencies and communications all combine to arouse to sagacity, vigilance and well-considered action and manipulation.

A child born on this day while possessing many talents and intellectual as well as personal traits to recommend it and further its high ambitions, yet may be subject to financial losses through fraud and misrepresentation. It may suffer through lax speech or writings.

If you have no other use for your spare room you might let Uncle Sam have it to store some of his surplus wheat in.

Theodore Roosevelt, when President of the United States, had a solution to most of the problems that now baffle Washington and cause endless debate, and no end of confusion. He said: "For fifty years they debated about building the Panama Canal; I built it and let them debate." What this Nation needs is more Theodore Roosevelts.

Our vest having accumulated about as many spots as it can accommodate, will now be laid aside for the duration—of summer.

EVERY TONSIL CASE JUDGED ON ITS OWN

• • • • •

No Set Rules To Go By, Says Dr. Clendening

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE TIME OF year is rapidly approaching when the summer vacation will rob Johnny and Mabel of their last excuse for not having their tonsils out.

Arguments go pro and con about whether tonsils should be removed and I am frequently dragged into these discussions, but I have no fixed opinion on the subject. The only thing I am certain of is that no general rule can be laid down and each case must be judged on its own merits.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

I do not believe that all tonsils should be removed from children before they reach the age of 10 years, although I have heard this opinion expressed. Nor do I believe that tonsils should not be removed at all. Plenty of people get along in perfect health without tonsils.

Function of Tonsils

In fact, our knowledge about the function of the tonsils is very limited. I have just been trying to find out in several textbooks on the Nose and Throat what the functions of the tonsils are and everyone concludes by agreeing that they do not know. Only a few facts stand out. One is that the tonsils are lymph-like structures related to the lymphatics elsewhere in the body, that they form a ring of tissue all around the back of the throat.

The other members of the ring are the adenoids, the lingual tonsil at the base of the tongue. Another positive fact is that the tonsils are very large in infancy and childhood and tend to become smaller as time goes on. Therefore, tonsils which would be perfectly normal in a child of two or three years are definitely abnormal in a person of fifteen to twenty. Large tonsils in later years usually mean that they have become the seat of infection. In that case they should be removed.

Stopping Infections

The tonsils certainly serve some function in stopping infections on the outposts of the body and naturally they are subject to attacks of acute tonsillitis which may turn into chronic infection so that at the age of ten to fifteen years it is probable that the tonsil has outlived its usefulness and is doing more harm as a harbor of infection than good.

It is valuable to consider why tonsils were taken out and what results occurred. According to some recent figures, the commonest causes for removal were:

Frequent colds.—One year after operation 90 per cent of these cases were improved.

Frequent sore throat.—One year after operation 96 per cent of these patients were improved.

Mouth breathing.—One year after operation 93 per cent of these were improved.

Enlarged glands in the neck.—Improvement occurred in about 40 per cent of cases.

Ear trouble.—Improvement occurred in about 50 per cent of cases.

Rheumatism. — Improvement occurred in less than 1 per cent of cases in children and in about 30 per cent in the joint pains of adults.

Such are the facts and the elements on which one has to decide whether or not tonsils should be removed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. C. W.: Can one use too much salt in the diet? I have been told that salt causes hardening of the arteries in people of 50 years or more.

Answer: This is an old superstition that has been given up by all scientific nutritionists. Salt is restricted in the diet only when the kidneys will not eliminate it. The body needs a certain amount of salt every day and nature provides for throwing off the excess. It does not cause hardening of the arteries.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

ERIE, Pa.—Two Erie taxi companies have evolved a unique plan whereby they agree to barter cab service—for the good tires of customers' cars. The two concerns advertise they will give credit of more than 75 per cent of the cash value of all good tires turned over to them.

CRIME AT CASTAWAY by EDITH BRISTOL

SYNOPSIS

The moment Gerry Lane stepped over the threshold of "Castaway" to become secretary to Walter Gregg, wealthy contractor, she had a feeling of foreboding. It was obvious her employer feared someone or something. Was it Worth Durfee with whom he had been in litigation and who had sent Gregg's car hurtling over a cliff, seriously injuring him? The latter won a damage suit now on appeal, and Durfee is trying to settle out of court. Or did it have something to do with the antagonism which existed in his home? Estelle Gregg's wife, had no love for Martha his sister, who managed the household. Estelle also resented the fact that Pauline Dawson, Gregg's eccentric first wife, was staying at the contractor's cottage in nearby Hidden Cove. Sydney Loftus, Estelle's son, was contemptuous of Harry Craven, the suave manager of the Gregg Construction Company, and Lance Gregg, Walter's nephew, who gave up college to assist his uncle following the accident. Throughout was a feeling of distrust and watchful waiting. Gregg warns Gerry to keep his files locked. Her first day at Castaway, while Gerry was working on the Gallina Dam records, the company's latest project, Florabelle Hunt, Pauline's maid, slips into the study purportedly with a message for Gregg. When Gerry goes to summon Martha, the woman disappears with a picture of Gregg which hung over the file. Martha belittles the incident, asks Gerry not to mention it to anyone, and replaces the photo with a duplicate. That night Gregg is murdered. Martha will benefit most by her brother's death: Castaway will go to her. Estelle's legacy is tied up in a trust fund. Sheriff Nathan Allen learns from Kobe, a servant, that Worth Durfee visited Gregg at 8:30, the night of the killing. Durfee frankly admits "There never was any love lost between us and I'm not sorry he's dead, but it puts me in a spot."

CHAPTER TWELVE

"You won't believe me," again Durfee looked sharply at the impassive face of the sheriff. "But Gregg was alive when I let myself out by one of the French windows. Alive and very bad natured, if you ask me."

"I didn't ask you—that. But you might as well tell me what you were doing over at Castaway that late at night. You and Gregg weren't as chummy as all that."

"I went late on purpose. I didn't want to run into any of his family. So I telephoned him and told him I'd come after the house was quieted down. He didn't want me to come very much — but I had some business to attend to."

"Such as?"

"Money. Walt Gregg and I have been scrapping over one thing and another for fifteen years. I made up my mind the only people getting the best of our scrap were our lawyers, his and mine. They were making money. Not we. I wrote him offering to settle the damage suit for a cash compromise."

I remembered. That letter I had filed. That much, at least, of Durfee's story fitted into place. Durfee went on—.

"I went over with a pocket full of money — cash. There's nothing like a roll of bills to make a man talk sense. The Jap boy let me in. I talked for about ten minutes, told Gregg I was tired of paying money to lawyers. I'd leave the money there for him to think about. Told him to sleep on it. He growled at me and told me to take the damn money he wasn't settling for anything less than the amount allowed him by the court. So I just put the roll of bills down on the night table. I started to go—Walt called me back and growled again and said 'even if I hate a man as much as I hate you, I wouldn't take as much as a red cent without giving a receipt.' So I scrbbled a receipt for five thousand dollars and he signed it."

Durfee fished into the inside pocket of his loose coat and pulled out his wallet. From it he took a scribbled piece of paper. Allen looked at it and nodded.

"That's Gregg's signature," Durfee went on, putting the paper back into the wallet and the wallet back into his pocket. "The story sounds screwy, but it's the truth. He was alive when I left him—told me he'd consider my proposition and telephone me today. Now I know there was somebody hiding in the trees—" he broke off again suddenly and stared into space.

"Hiding in what trees?" Allen asked.

"You know that bungalow? Looks like a doll's house?" (I knew it—for it was the guest house where I lodged.) "Well, as I let myself out, I'd have sworn I saw somebody—looked like a white raincoat—slip in mong those trees and disappear behind the little house."

So somebody—a murderer, perhaps—had been playing hide-and-seek in the trees around my cabin last night, just about the time I was dropping to sleep.

That unpleasant suggestion startled me more than it did the sheriff. He only said.

"When you thought you saw somebody lurking in the trees why didn't you try to find out who it was? Or at least warn Gregg?"

Durfee half-way laughed. "What business was it of mine who was hiding out in the trees at Castaway? None of my funeral, was it? For all I knew, somebody had a date at the cottage. Anyhow, the coachdog didn't bark, and I figured if it was anybody who had no right to be around, the Dalmatian would be making a fuss. I just got into my car and drove home — if it hadn't been for Gregg getting bumped off this way I'd never have thought again about the person in the trees."

"You're not such a regular visitor over at Gregg's place," suggested Allen. "How come the coachdog didn't bark at you?"

Again Durfee laughed his half-laugh that had in it no trace of merriment and was more like a snarl. "That's another story. Maybe it will come out, too. It's not generally known — but the Dalmation was born out there—" he waved in the direction of the kennels.

"Then how" Allen began, but paused, and when he continued his questions it was on another tack. "Have you any information you can give me that might help in finding whoever it was that shot Gregg?"

"Not the slightest," Durfee was emphatic. "I imagine there are other people who have had as good reasons as I have for hating the man—but that's not saying one of them would pump him full of lead."

"Look, Durfee," Allen went on, slowly. "Your reasons—the reasons you gave, for calling on Gregg last night, would sound fishy coming from anybody but you. But I know you have your own ways of doing things and I've never known you to lie—although, I'll admit I've known you to be plenty ornery. I'm going to take what you've told me as gospel truth—for a while, anyhow—and go after whoever it was that was hiding in the trees. I want to check over every angle — finger prints the weapon, everything—before I do anything official Get me?"

"You're trying to tell me you could arrest me on suspicion—but you're not doing it right now. Is that the answer?" Durfee took off his glasses and wiped the lens and for the first time I saw that in his prominent eyes, masked by his air of bravado, there was a realization of the danger of his predicament.

"I'm just asking you to give me your word you'll stick around home here—and be on hand if I need you. That's all," said Allen.

"You've always been fair enough with me, sheriff." Durfee rose. "I'll give you my word. I'll be around. And good luck." He held out his hand stiffly to the officer, bowed just as stiffly to me, turned and entered the house.

We hurried back to the car and in a few minutes even the sound of the yelping dogs in the kennels was dimmed by the distance. Allen was silent and thoughtful, his eyes straight in front on the brown road ahead, his big brawny hands relaxed on the wheel.

This would be a good time to ask a question that had been bothering me all day—Heavens! Was it only this morning that the doctor met me at the door? It seemed to be a lifetime ago, after all these hours of questions and answers I plunged right in—

"There's a question I want to ask you"

"Fire away."

"Before you talked with me, early today, Miss Gregg engaged me as her secretary. I haven't done any work for her yet—but I'm ready to. Now, I'm working for you—and glad to. But if there should be something—anything — where her interests and your interests would conflict, then what should I do? Which would come first — you or Miss Gregg?"

Without taking his gaze off the road for more than a second, Allen shot a quick glance at me. I knew I hadn't worded that question well—but I was concerned. How much should I tell him of what I had heard?

"Got something special on your mind?"

"Nothing I couldn't repeat." His easy manner made it simple to talk, but right now I wasn't going to tell everything. Perhaps I'd have to, later on. I was learning, and very rapidly the value of a trump in reserve.

"Just you remember this, young lady," Allen was in earnest, "at this minute. Miss Gregg's interests and mine are so close together you couldn't tell one from the other. If you know anything that will help find the killer — the person who stood over a helpless, injured man and pumped bullets into him—the quicker you speak up the better. I'm listening."

So I told him. How Mr. Gregg had seemed worried, frightened, ever since I came. How Harry Craven had offered to bribe me if I'd make copies for him of everything I wrote. How the woman in white had slipped so silently into the study — and had slipped so swiftly out again. How Mr. Gregg had impressed on me, so earnestly, the importance of the papers locked in the steel cabinet. Lastly, I told him about the loud and angry words coming from the bedroom yesterday afternoon when Gregg and Craven were talking.

Only one thing I withheld—and I think that must have been partly because Lance had been so considerate toward me that morning. Or was there some other reason? I did not tell of the sentence that had rung through the passage yesterday as Lance left is uncle's room —"If you don't..... it may be death."That much I held in reserve —I can always mention it later, I reasoned to myself—and hoped I'd never need to speak of it.

Allen listened carefully to everything I had to say, nodded thoughfully now and then, and thanked me. Just as I finished talking we pulled into the parking place before the garage at Castaway. He gave me one brief caution as we left his car:

"I'm sure you know enough not to talk about anything you've been taking down in your notes," he said. "But there are two things, especially, I want to warn you about. Don't mention that money Durfee says he left here. And don't speak about Domino coming from the Durfee kennels."

I assured him he could count on my silence and we crossed the parking place where several cars stood, arrivals since we left, less than an hour before. Allen gave them a hasty but critical glance. "City newspapers," he said. "I told you."

Cook the modern GAS way—
with only a little water to save vitamins and minerals

Here's how modern GAS cooking can help you serve the food values you pay for Cooking vegetables with a minimum of water saves vitamins and minerals, preserves their natural flavor, color and shape—besides being economical of gas and time, minimizes heat in the kitchen and keeps the kitchen cleaner.

Here's the accepted method of simmer-cooking:

1. Use only sufficient water to cover the bottom of a covered utensil.
2. Turn gas on full until steam appears.
3. When steam appears, turn flame to simmer position and cook only until tender, no longer. Do not lift cover during cooking.
4. Serve vegetables immediately. Overcooking impairs flavor and texture, destroys color, and causes the loss of vitamins.
5. The liquid drained from vegetables should be used in sauces, vegetable cocktails, gravies, and soups, as it contains flavor and valuable food elements.

You need these foods every day!

For an expectant or nursing mother, 1 quart.

Miss Anna Stratton, Former Winona Resident, Is Bride

Miss Anna E. Stratton of West Chester, Pa., and Carl R. Joslyn of Scipio Center, N. Y., were married at noon Saturday by the Friends ceremony at the home of Mrs. Charles Crawford of Carrollton, aunt of Miss Stratton.

The bride was lovely in a white marquisette floor length gown with white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias. Her attendants were Miss Alice Stratton of West Chester, Pa., who wore a gown of aqua blue with a corsage of pink rose buds and Miss Elizabeth Joslyn, sister of the groom, who wore a rose gown with a blue corsage.

INN KEEPER PLEADS GUILTY; FINED $200

LISBON, June 2.—Finis was written Monday to the case of J. Willard McBride of Columbiana, R. D., indicted by the last September grand jury on a charge of exhibiting a gambling device, when he appeared in court and entered a plea of guilty before Judge Joel H. Sharp. He was fined $200 and costs, and given a 90-day suspended jail sentence. He was also required to post bond of $500 for his good behavior for one year.

McBride was indicted on evidence obtained when sheriff's deputies raided the place and confiscated two slot machines. In the meantime, McBride went before a justice of the peace at Negley and after entering a plea of guilty to exhibiting a gambling device, paid a fine.

Counsel for the defendant then charged his client could not be placed in jeopardy twice for the same offense. A trial was held before Judge Sharp to determine the issue, and the jury returned a verdict that because there was evidence of connivance and fraud in the appearance in the squire's court, the defendant had not been placed in jeopardy before on the charge. The matter was appealed but the higher court dismissed the case which was to have gone to trial Monday on the original charge.

Make Sure, This Time

COLUMBUS, June 2.—At war's end there should be a "stiff, hard peace to make sure Germany won't do this again," said Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, in reply last night to the question: "Will there be another Versailles treaty?"

The ambassador added, however, that it should be a "genrous peace economically to let the Germans live peaceably."

He addressed the Columbus Chamber of Commerce at its annual banquet and answered written questions after an "off the record" speech.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

DAYLIGHT dining, a seasonal fashion circumstance which used to throw us women, now seems more reasonable in the face of wartime. Your soldier or sailor beau isn't equipped with time or money to trail a lady who trails her skirts of an evening. Something pretty to please his few hours off duty, something that can ride the bus or subway, or walk the street in broad daylight, is the answer.

A good formula for testing such a dress when selecting it would include a street length skirt; a bodice that will look decorative across a table; and if possible an ensembled jacket to hide the decor until one reaches the table.

MEXICO LINES UP AGAINST THE AXIS

MEXICO CITY, June 2.—Mexico took her place today as a full-fledged ally of the United Nations, casting her fortunes with the nine other Latin American republics linked in arms against the Axis.

Mexico's declaration of war as of May 22 was signed last night by President Manuel Avila Camacho without fanfare in his private residence. On May 22 the Mexican cabinet decided that full belligerency was the only answer to submarine attacks on Mexican shipping.

Mexico thus became the 27th United Nations ally and put before the Axis an unbroken stretch of hostile coast in two oceans from Panama to the farthest reaches of North America.

Figures Up Mileage

LISBON, June 2.—Sheriff George Hayes compiled a report of mileage traveled by his department during the month of May in the apprehension and conveyance of prisoners to and from the county jail and to state institutions.

During the month Sheriff Hayes states 5,070 miles were traveled, which, at a minimum cost of 6-cents per mile, meant an expenditure of $304.20. This does not include miles driven in serving papers or in conducting investigations, the sheriff stated.

BATTLE TO DEATH IN REFORMATORY

MANSFIELD, June 2.—In a life and death struggle down a cellblock corridor, an inmate of the state reformatory was slashed to death by another convict last night.

Thirteen wounds were found on the body of Charles Dickerson, 31, and Prosecutor Harold Lutz said murder charges would be filed against 19-year-old Ernest Moore.

Lutz said Moore told him he stabbed Dickerson because the prisoner "ratted" on him. Twelve infractions of reformatory regulations had been placed against Moore recently, but Lutz said Dickerson was not to blame.

The battle started while a group of prisoners was returning from a mess hall. Lutz related it thus:

Moore met Dickerson and plunged a blade fashioned from scissors into his stomach. Dickerson fought free and raced down the corridor, with Moore close behind, thrusting the blade into Dickerson's back time after time. Immediately behind Moore came Guard George S. Ewing, but he was unable to overtake the two until Dickerson fell mortally wounded. Moore then was cornered and overpowered and lodged in the county jail.

He was sentenced from Seneca county to serve one year to age for auto theft and carrying concealed weapons. Dickerson was admitted from Licking county in 1934 to serve 1 to 20 years for cutting with intent to kill.

CHALLENGES JAPS TO TRY INVASION

Australian Premier Says Nippon Has Suffered Stalemate

(By Associated Press)

Australia's Prime Minister John Curtin bluntly challenged Japan to attempt an invasion of the down-under continent today and declared that since the arrival of reinforcements "the enemy has found his most southerly adventurer beyond his capacity to execute."

On the critical war front, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese armies were reported to have recaptured Shakichen, north of the Japanese-held Chekiang province capital of Kinhwa, and killed 400 Japanese troops in a surprise attack.

A Chinese army spokesman acknowledged, however, that Japanese troops had driven 35 miles southwest from Kinhwa in the east coast fighting and advanced within 10 miles of Chuhsien, one of the main targets of Japanese raids against suspected Allied air base sites.

Confused fighting spread through several of China's eastern provinces, with the invaders operating on a big scale in an apparent all-out attempt to crush Gen. Chang's armies and end the long and exhausting war on that front.

Sees Stalemate

In Australia, Prime Minister Curtin launched the commonwealth's second liberty loan drive with the declaration that "Japan's program at last has suffered a stalemate," and he added:

"I defy the enemy to land large forces in Australia."

Coincidentally, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced that the wrecks of three Japanese midget submarines destroyed in an unsuccessful attempt to attack Sydney harbor on Sunday had been located. Smashed by depth charges and artillery fire, two of the sunken hulks had already been recovered.

Allied forces pressed the hunt for a mother ship which was believed to have launched the sort-range submarines on their suicide mission within 300 miles or less from Australia's major city.

United nation fliers continued blasting at Japanese "invasion" bases north of Australia, carrying out three night raids without loss of a plane and destroying or damaging nine of 30 Japanese planes which raided Port Moresby, New Guinea.

On the night raids, Allied airmen bombed and machine-gunned the enemy at Lae and Salamaua, in New Guinea, and at Rabaul, New Britain.

Simpler Shoes Seen

BOSTON, June 2.—The trend in shoes this year is toward simpler styles—attributed by shoe manufacturers to priorities on materials for metal bows, buckles and nail heads often used as decorations.

Maxwell Field, managing director of the Boston show, said, however, that leather supplies were ample to produce shoes for civilian needs this year.

Greyhound Buses Go On

NEW WARTIME SCHEDULES

The transportation needs of America-at-war have made it necessary to change Greyhound schedules beginning tomorrow. This new service has been arranged in full cooperation with the Office of Defense Transportation.

Today the important thing is to make every bus work full time — keeping vital traffic on the move. To achieve this purpose, Greyhound is introducing many changes — diverting buses to more essential routes—reducing driving speeds — eliminating Expresses and Limiteds and many "second sections" — unifying service with other bus companies in some cases—conserving tires and vital materials in every way.

Be sure to ask about the new schedules before you take a trip. We hope you will not be inconvenienced, crowded or delayed. But if you are, please be lenient — the war effort comes first with Greyhound as it does with you.

FLORIDA PIPE LINE PLAN IS ABANDONED

WASHINGTON, June 2.—In the face of unexpected opposition, the house leadership today had virtually abandoned legislation for construction of an oil pipeline and a barge canal across Florida as a means of transporting oil and gasoline to the eastern seaboard.

Majority Leader McCormack (D-Mass) and Chairman Mansfield (D-Tex) of the rivers and harbors committee said they had no present intention of pressing for further consideration of the bill, which the house rejected yesterday 121 to 85.

As far as he was concerned, Mansfield said, "the bill is dead" because "a majority of the members have indicated they don't want it."

However, neither McCormack nor Mansfield ruled out the possibility of seeking to revive the legislation if, as McCormack put it, "there should appear to be a change of sentiment."

Both had told the house the bill was designed to meet the immediate and long-range needs of the east.

McCormack conceded later that President Roosevelt already has authority to order construction of the pipeline as a war measure, and there were reports on Capitol Hill that such a presidential order would be forthcoming shortly.

Opposition to the legislation came chiefly from opponents of the controversial Florida ship canal, who claimed the expenditure of $144,000,000 contemplated by the bill was unwarranted at present.

Newsies Wallop Phalanx, 10-1; Saxons Bow To Chinas, 10-3

ERRORS MAR BOTH GAMES, COST BILL PAULINE SHUTOUT

McCoy, Chinas' Pitcher, Holds Saxons' Club To Three Hits

The Salem China and the Salem News both came through with wins in their softball contests at Centennial park last night, serving notice to the league-leading Recreation that the end of the trail has not been reached.

In the opener, the Newsies smashed through in the fourth inning for eight runs and an easy 10-1 victory over the luckless Phalanx club. The game had been close through the first three frames but in the fourth, Pitcher Bill Theiss' "soft" pitching no longer fooled the Newsies and they collected several safeties. They batted clear around and trotted the sacks for eight runs. Two errors marred the inning for the Phalanx.

Came the seventh inning with the News out in front by a 10-0 count. With one away, Bob Ritchie singled over second and went to third when the ball was miscued by Jim Jackson. From there he came in on a single by Bill Shepard, ruining Bill Pauline's shutout.

"Wink" Miller, "Red" Hall and "Howdy" Kerr each made two hits to pace the News to its fifth win of the season. The loss was the fourth for the Phalanx. Miller and Sammy Drakulich both turned in fielding gems at the shortstop position.

In the nightcap, Johnny McCoy of the Salem Chinas came through with a top-notch pitching performance to defeat the Saxons, 10-3. The game started out as a hurlers' battle between McCoy and diminutive Gus Falk, erstwhile third baseman of the Saxons. In the fourth the potterymen exploded to drive over five runs and tuck the game away in the well-known bag.

For the Chinas, it was Les Knepp, Morrison and McGill who led the team in batting. Each connected for two safe blows. Matt Wagner got two of the three hits doled out to the Saxons.

Neither pitcher was given real support on the defense, the Saxons committing seven errors and the Chinas being guilty of three. The win kept the Chinas a half-game behind the first place Recs.

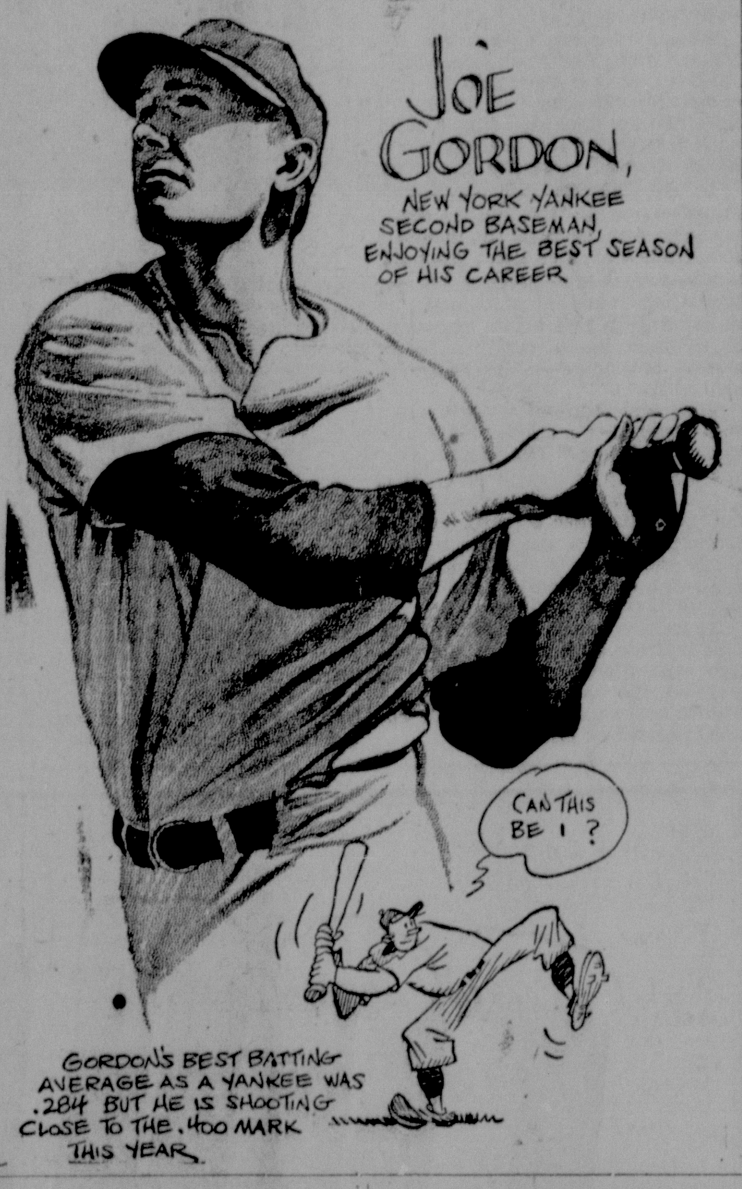
PEAK SEASON - - - By Jack Sords



JOE GORDON,
NEW YORK YANKEE SECOND BASEMAN, ENJOYING THE BEST SEASON OF HIS CAREER
CAN THIS BE I ?
GORDON'S BEST BATTING AVERAGE AS A YANKEE WAS .284 BUT HE IS SHOOTING CLOSE TO THE .400 MARK THIS YEAR

JOE GORDON, DOERR SEEK BATTING LEAD

NEW YORK, June 2. — Joe (Flash) Gordon of the New York Yankees and Bobby Doerr of the Boston Red Sox still are carrying on their private struggle for the batting leadership of the American league, but they are down now to a point where they can be seen with the naked eye by other prominent hitters.

The Yankee ace is on top today with a .380, bolstered by an 18-game hitting streak. Three points behind is the star second baseman of the Red Sox.

One of the most interesting aspects of the batting competition, however, is that Gordon (Babe) Phelps of the Pittsburgh. Pirates has pulled into the National league lead with .373, thus bringing a representative of the senior circuit into proximity of the leading hitters of the American league for the first time in many weeks.

Phelps increased his average 40 points in the last week while Ray Lamanno, Cincinnati's rookie catcher who led previously, slumped from .366 to .319.

Pete Reiser of Brooklyn, the batting champ in the senior circuit last year, moved second place with .343, a gain of 15 points.

The American league's 1941 champion, Ted Williams of Boston, also staged a big spurt during the week, soaring 30 points to a .330 percentage to rank sixth in his league, two points behind teammate Johnny Pesky.

Mel Harder Is Selected To Hurl Against Boston

BOSTON, June 2.—It was up to Mel Harder today to pitch his mates to their first victory over Boston, which almost two weeks ago pounded Mel in an 8 to 3 shellacking to start the Indians' slump, now composed of 11 losses in their last 13 games.

Although Harder has lost three games in six tries, Boston is the only team that has hit him hard this season. His opponent, Charley Wagner, chalked up one of the wins.

In 1940 the output of crude oil in the United States was 1,350,000,000 barrels of 43 gallons each.

Hamilton Mentor Resigns

HAMILTON, June 2.—Supt. C. W. White said today that A. R. Tilton would resign at the close of the school year as football coach for Hamilton High school to join an insurance company. Coach since 1934, Tilton had a record of 60 victories, 10 defeats and four ties.

FOXX JOINS OTHER WANING A.L. STARS IN NATIONAL LOOP

Walker, Hemsley Fail To Boost Reds As Flag Contender

By JUDSON BAILEY

Another American leaguer has found that the path of glory leads but to the National league.

Since the Boston Braves provided a temporary haven for Babe Ruth in 1935 many waning stars in the junior circuit have found refuge in the National league—among them Al Simmons, "Schoolboy" Rowe, Johnny Allen, Fred (Dixie) Walker, Gerald Walker, Rollie Hemsley, Bill Werber, Zeke Bonura, Debs Garms, Bump Hadley, Monte Pearson and Ellsworth (Babe) Dahlgren.

Now Jimmie Foxx, one of the greatest righthanded sluggers in major league history, has been sold to the Chicago Cubs by the Boston Red Sox only a couple of weeks after the Cubs had given up Dahlgren because their first base job was being adequately handled by Glen Russell and Phil Cavaretta.

Foxx is the fourth prominent American leaguer to be taken by a National league club this season and the other three have not as yet done anything to distinguish themselves in their new surroundings.

The Cincinnati Reds, who had great success with Werber after buying him from the Philadelphia Athletics, acquired Catcher Rollie Hemsley and Outfielder Gerald Walker with the expectation that this pair would restore the Reds to pennant contenders.

However, neither has been able to hold a regular job.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, for whom Dixie Walker became a bright star, obtained Rowe from Detroit last month and have used him both as a relief pitcher and as a pinch-hitter with indifferent results.

The Foxx deal filled in a lull in the major leagues while clubs were traveling for another round of intersectional play starting today with the American league's western clubs invading the east and the eastern clubs of the National league moving west.

REDS OPEN FATEFUL HOME STAND TODAY

CINCINNATI, June 2—With three victories in four games as a starter, the Cincinnati Reds today continue an 18-game home stand which local baseball experts believe will make or break them for 1942.

Today's opposition is Philadelphia—something of a break for a club with a half dozen of its 25 players out with injuries, including regulars Frank McCormick, first baseman, and Mike McCormick, outfielder.

While Buck probably won't play any this week, and Mike will be out until about Aug. 1, four other cripples should be in shape by the time the Phils' series ends with a night game Wednesday.

The Redlegs are in a tie with New York for fourth on the .500 per cent mark.

In the last two weeks the Reds have won nine of 15, but .600 ball isn't good enough to put them up in the chase.

Elmer Riddle, whose only victory and complete game in six starts this year has been against the Phils, is today's likely hurler unless Paul Derringer, who lost by one run to the Phils two weeks ago, gets the nod, Si Johnson, who won that game from Derringer, is the Phils' probable.

Administrator Discusses Methods and Reasons, Calling for Co-operation of Public

BY JOHN T. BURNS

(Price Regulations)

Q. What about services? Is there a limit on charges by laundries, tailors, dry cleaners, auto repair shops, radio repair men, storage establishments and the like?

A. Yes, price ceilings are being are being placed over these retail services performed in connection with a commodity. But purely personal services, such as beauty parlors and barber shops, are exempted by the Act.

Q. Is real estate covered?

A. No, sales of land and buldings are exempt from price control.

Q. Why do retail ceilings go into effect on different dates? Why don't maximum prices take effect at once?

A. By coming under maximum prices one week after wholesalers and manufacturers, retail stores will have a greater opportunity to buy supplies at March wholesale prices before returning to March retail prices. Any deliveries to retailers after May 11, of course, must be at prices no higher than the supplier's maximum price — even if the contract calls for a higher price. In the case of retail services, the effective date is delayed until July 1. This will give OPA time to set up machinery for the administration of maximum prices in this field.

Q. Is there any provision for aiding a seller where special circumstances impose grave hardships?

A. Yes. If a seller finds his maximum prices are abnormally low compared with prevailing maximum prices for the same article or services, he may petition OPA for individual relief. The procedure for making this petition will be set forth in a regulation to be issued shortly by the Administrator. If a seller's maximum prices for a commodity are in line with those of other retailers, but the retailers as a group can make little or no profit or may have to sell at a loss, the seller should immediately write the Retail Trade and Services Division, OPA, Washington, D. C., and set forth the facts.

Q. How could such relief be provided?

A. Relief would take the form of a "roll-back" of prices at the wholesale and manufacturing level by OPA order.

Q. What are the provisions about store licenses?

A. Every retail and wholesale establishment automatically is licensed to sell under the general maximum price regulation at the date the ceiling applies to it, and every new store automatically receives a license.

Q. What is the purpose of the license?

A. The licenses gives OPA a basis for action against stores which refuse to conform to regulations.

Q. What action may be taken?

A. OPA may ask court to suspend, for as long as 12 months, the license of a store which, after receipt of a warning notice, violates OPA's regulations. Without a license the store can not operate.

Q. Are there other penalties for violations?

A. Yes. Convictions for certain violations may bring a fine up to $5,0000 and imprisonment up to one year, or both.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, June 2. — You've been hearing a lot about those football teams the navy expects to have next fall—but now it turns out there may be some right good army teams, too..... For instance, reports around Louisville say that Greasy Neale may become coach at Fort Knox..... and the Air Corps Technical school at Keesler field, Miss., is lining up a ten-game schedule with such colleges as Miami, Alabama, Purdue and Texas Aggies on the list..... Footnote: Connie Ryan, the whiz kid who was supposed to do so much good for the Giants this year, has been optioned to Jersey City.

Today's Guest Star

Walter Lynch, Jacksonville (Fla.) Journal: "Can't you lend Joe Louis $117,000 to pay his income tax?"

One Minute Sports Page

Jimmy Frain, Tony Galento's manager, reports that Tony, who has been successively an iceman, bartender, saloon keeper, fighter, referee, umpire, song writer, singer and stage actor, now has branched out in a new career in the movies by making a short film .....Manager Dusty Rhodes of the Charleston Sally league club, livens up batting practice by having the public address system give out with swing music..... Wonder what he uses for the pitchers?

Quote, Unquote

Rip Russell (after making his outfield debut for the Cubs in an army-navy benefit game): "We infielders always used to maintain that an outfielder should pay to get into a ball game. And doggoned if we weren't right. The very first time I play in the outfield in the big leagues, I have to pay to get into the park."

Armstrong Begins Return

SAN JOSE, Calif., June 2.—Henry Armstrong, former world champion in three divisions, started back along the comeback trail last night with a technical knockout in the fourth round over "Irish" Johnny Taylor of Oakland. Taylor was substituting for Ceclio Lozada. Armstrong weighed 148 and Taylor 147.

JIMMIE FOXX NOW FINDS REFUGE IN NATIONAL CIRCUIT

One of Game's Greatest Sluggers Goes To Chicago Cubs

(By Associated Press)

BOSTON, June 2.—The faintest shrug of the shoulders was the only reaction Jimmy Foxx, one of baseball's greatest moderns, exhibited when he experienced the most surprising shock in his 18 major league seasons—his sale to the Chicago Cubs by the Boston Red Sox after seven other clubs had waived him out of the American league.

"Well, it should be a very interesting experience," Foxx said.

"Chicago is a great city and I'll like playing for my old friend Jimmy Wilson.

"I really don't know much about the National league, for I never thought I ever would be in it," Foxx continued. "In fact, being traded anywhere was a matter that never occurred to me."

Foxx, now sidelined by a fractured rib, his reward for his most recent display of teamsmanship—serving as a batting practice pitcher in the Yankee stadium last week, has assured his new bosses he will report in Chicago tomorrow and will be ready to perform for them early next week. During their telephone conversation, Foxx was warned that he was coming into a curveball league. "Don't worry about that," he replied. "It won't bother me."

And that was the only boast Foxx made as he prepared to transfer from the younger to the older circuit.

"I regret I have to leave Boston and the American league after all these years," he said. "But I'll still be in the majors."

PARLEYS PLANNED ON SECOND FRONT

British Production Head's Impending Visit Seen As Big Step

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 2. — The imminent visit of Oliver Lyttelton, British production minister, was viewed by informed officials today as having a significant bearing on the question of opening a second European war front.

A four-fold purpose was seen in Lyttelton's forthcoming conferences with President Roosevelt, War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson, and other top officials.

These aims were reported to be:

First, to weld the two countries' production efforts into one common program.

Second, to set up a combined U. S. British production board, which would arrange for a pooling of productive facilities.

Third, to give the British production chief a firsthand view of America's armament production lines at work, in order to quash any lingering doubts, concerning the volume of this country's war output.

Food Board Planned

Last, to discuss creation of an Anglo-American food board. This probably would not take place until after America's own war food board, to be headed by Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard, is announced by Nelson, possibly this week.

If military leaders of the United Nations have determined to open a western European front—and well-placed persons believe such a decision has been made—production problems are of high strategic importance.

Officials in close touch with the production effort were known to feel that the war could be brought to a turning point this year, although victory could not be expected nearly so soon.

Only the closest coordination of American and British production efforts, to guarantee that enough of every type of weapon and munition is on hand or the decisive thrust, could insure the success of a drive in France or on some other second front, it was pointed out.

The shipping problem undoubtedly will influence the Nelson-Lyttelton conferences, officials said, for transportation would be a limiting factor in any proposed pooling of machines and materials.

HITLER'S LOSING HOLD ON MASSES

would spell the doom of Germany.

Aboard the Drottningholm I heard an elderly lady, a refugee and obviously from Wurttemberg judging from her dialect, discuss the war with an old man whose speech indicated he came from East Prussia.

"The war simply must end this summer," the elderly woman said. "All the men from the front who come home on furlough tell us it is so terrible out east that they won't have another winter of it."

"Yes, that's the way we feel up our way," nodded the East Prussian.

The Explanation

Adolf Hitler's declaration of war upon the United States showed a similar misgauging of the psychology of the masses.

How explain Hitler's obvious weakening in psychological understanding?

There was a time when Hitler's sensibility in feeling out his way with the crowds was nothing short of uncanny.

Invariably I was impressed with der fuehrer's ability to be all things unto all men. Hitler played with his audiences as an orchestra conductor plays with the members of his musical ensemble.

His meetings often reminded one of the old revival meetings. Even the most hard-boiled semed to "get religion"; I. E., the Nazi religion of blood and soil.

After Hitler became chancellor and later chief of state, he could seldom extemporize but had to read important pronouncements from prepared copy.

Yet these speeches, too, during the first six or seven years of his dictatorship showed a remarkable psychological understanding of the German people.

During one of my interviews some years ago I said to the German dictator: "We are all aware that you owe a great part of your success to your ability to win over the masses of the people by your personal appeal in extemporaneous speeches. Now that you are the head of government, you must write out most of your pronouncements. Does that not cramp your style?"

"Not at all," he replied. "When I compose a speech, I visualize the people. I can see them just as though they were standing before me. I sense how they will react."

That was some years ago. Today his speeches don't have the same compelling power with his hearers.

Lives In Cloud World

The explanation seems to lie in the fact that Adolf Hitler now lives in a cloud-world of his own, high up on Mt. Olympus, and that his contacts with the real world are carefully filtered by the coterie of confidants about him.

In short, Hitler no longer sees his German people through his own eyes but through the strongly colored spectacles of his underlings.

These underlings permit Hitler to hear only what they think he should hear.

Men in the German dictators entourage have often told me that there are times when they must reveal no unpleasant facts to their chief, as this might disturb the equilibrium of his temper and make him unfit to work at his problems. In course of time, Hitlers temper has become an excuse for withholding all sorts of facts he should know.

In the years that I have known him, he has become more and more unapproachable by the rank and file of the people and even by the rank and file of his faithful party members.

The masses naturally are quick to sense this. There is no longer that spontaneous enthusiasm which characterized the reaction of the crowds during the first years of the Hitler regime.

countries to guard the route of the Essen raiders indicated that the night's operations may have been of a magnitude possibly equalling the startling strength of the Cologne assault.

The losses were fewer than the 44 of Saturday night—still far below the 10 per cent losses which military authorities generally can agree can be afforded by a successful air smash.

On a basis of comparison with the Cologne attack, Essen probably was deluged under 6,000,000 pounds of incendiary and explosive bombs poured down from planes manned by 6,000 fliers.

While the thousand bombers were hauling their deadly freight to the Ruhr, one of the largest "intruder" forces of the war—composed of American-made Boston and Hurricane fighter bombers—went hunting over the intervening occupied territory as they did on the night of the operations against Cologne.

Drawing to themselves the attention of the German anti-aircraft gunners, these forces bombed several airfields to blank out the night fighter defense, and attacked shipping and railroads in Holland, Belgium and France.

One Dornier bomber was reported shot down over Holland and several other German planes damaged.

and Hungary, and between the United States and Rumania."

The declarations of war against these three minor Axis partners was expected to be more or less of a formality, adding them officially to the list of countries with which the United States now is at war. So far, this government has declared war on Japan, Germany and Italy.

Mr. Roosevelt's mention of plans for an extension of military activities by Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania was without amplification. There have been frequent reports, however, that Hitler has been insisting that they supply additional troops for the campaign against Russia.

Furthermore, advices from Europe have pointed to the possibility of the Nazis starting a new offensive in the form of a pincer movement on Iran and the Caucasus wth their rich oil reserves.
